North Central Texas Council of Governments Bestows Leadership and Cooperation Awards at 50th Annual Meeting

Opal Mauldin-Robertson, received the Linda Keithley
Award for Women in Public
Management

At the 50th annual meeting of the North Central Texas Council of Governments (NCTCOG) on Friday, June 17, three important regional awards were presented.

LINDA KEITHLEY AWARD FOR WOMEN IN PUBLIC MANAGEMENT. Established in 1986, this award is presented each year to an outstanding woman in public management who exemplifies the high standards represented by Linda Keithley during her seventeen years with the Council of Governments. The award is designed to recognize service as a public management professional through dedicated performance; service to the public management profession through active participation; and service to the community through civic, church, and charity activities.

Opal Mauldin-Robertson, City Manager for the City of Lancaster, received NCTCOG's 2016 Linda Keithley Award. Ms. Mauldin-Robertson was described as an incredible asset to the public sector, passionate and focused on making a positive impact on the citizens she serves and committed to mentoring not only within her organization, but throughout the region and beyond, helping others to see and reach for opportunities to grow, both personally and professionally.

Ms. Mauldin-Robertson was nominated by Rona Stringfellow, Assistant City Manager for the City of Lancaster.

WILLIAM J. PITSTICK REGIONAL EXCELLENCE AWARD. Established in 1993 to recognize the commitment to regionalism advocated by NCTCOG's former executive director Bill Pitstick, this award honors an individual who supports strong local government as the basis for democracy, who recognizes that urban challenges and concerns often cross jurisdictional boundaries, and who promotes coordination and cooperation among citizens and local elected officials.

Mickey Parson, Mayor Pro Tem with the City of Granbury, received the 2016 award. Mr. Parson was described as the ideal of what it means to be a public servant, promoting regional cooperation that results in a better government to serve our citizens. Whether in his role as councilmember, Workforce Board Chair, Vice Chair of TEX-21, or his role in protecting the quality, quantity and availability of water, he has contributed to the consensus-building necessary to build collaboration among stakeholders and regional partners to bring about quality projects that enhance and serve our entire region.

Mr. Parson was nominated by Nin Hulett, Mayor for the City of Granbury.

the William J. Pitstick
Regional Excellence Award

The Town of Addison and the cities of Carrollton, Coppell and Farmers Branch received the Regional Cooperation Award.

REGIONAL COOPERATION AWARD. Created in 1996, this award jointly recognizes two or more local governments for outstanding acts of cooperation. The award honors local governments that promote coordination and cooperation to solve regional problems, who do not allow jurisdictional boundaries to be barriers to solutions to those problems, and who demonstrate that joint projects often can provide better use of resources as well as high quality service.

The Town of Addison and the cities of Carrollton, Coppell and Farmers Branch received this year's Regional Cooperation Award. These four jurisdictions found ways to share and combine public safety services to eliminate duplication, reduce costs and improve services for citizens. They created the North Texas Emergency Communications Center Local Government Corporation and consolidated their public safety dispatch centers. Concurrent with the dispatch project, the cities worked together to create a new shared 800 MHZ public safety radio system. This joint cooperative venture eliminated duplicative services, will result in $12 million in savings, and allows dispatchers to send the closest police, fire or medical unit to the scene of an emergency without regard to city affiliation, thereby decreasing response time. The entities were nominated by Ashley Mitchell, Administrative Services Director with the City of Carrollton.
